Doctoral School of Materials Sciences and Technologies

Minimum standards for publishing when submitting the dissertation:

At least five publications. For each thesis in the dissertation, it is necessary to specify where the candidate has published the results. At least half of the thesis points should be related to journals or conference papers.

For co-authored publications, co-authors who do not have a PhD degree must provide the "Co-author statement" in Annex 6 of these Rules. In this statement, the co-authors of the Hungarian co-authors who do not have a PhD degree agree on the extent to which their participation percentage in the scientific work in question. This statement must be made once when that publication is first used in a rating process and each co-author should keep a copy for the subsequent rating process to be initiated.

At least two of the scientific papers related to the thesis points in which the Nominee had to appear at least 50% co-authored on the basis of a statement made in accordance with Annex 6 of the ATDSZ, in a journal with an impact factor on the Web of Science or Scopus list.

It is also a minimum requirement that the Candidate will confirm at least one conference presentation.
